SPACE, MEMORY OF LIGHT

LADISLAV SUTNAR

In the quest for space or the quest for light? In the quest of the space of light.

There is no duality between the light and the subject, the light creates the subject.

The image, a path that one sees only by turning. In fact things exist only because we turn on them. The existence of the world as a trace in the herbs.

To see is to make things exist, to turn towards things. It is the moment of consciousness of the world.

The confines of the two seas, the confines of the world and of conscience. The image.
